Engaging community-led solutions for human health and the health of our planet.

Dear Friends and Readers,

I write to introduce what will be my last and sweetest Annual Report for Health In Harmony. What a privilege it has been to serve this organization and our program partner, Alam Sehat Lestari (ASRI). Thank you, to each and every one of you reading this, for your interest, your guidance, and your support. You are helping to change and reframe the global conversation around one health, health for all beings, with a model that engages community-led solutions for human health and the health of our planet.

I think of 2015 as both a book and my own last chapter that opened in January when I traveled with Rafael Martinez, a member of the USA-based Community Hospital and Training Center (CHTC) architectural team, led by Richard Ramer. We went to present the near-final CHTC design ready to listen to ASRI’s feedback and demonstrate how well we’d listened by the design modifications that would become manifest in the finished building. The year ended in November when I led and shared ASRI with a dynamic group from the Sierra Club who, along with me, appreciated the magnificence of the CHTC rising alongside ASRI’s small, crowded, but beloved clinic.

In January, I was reminded that radical listening is what we must do in community and with community, including in our own work communities. In November, I recalled and celebrated the rich complexity and success of our work that will inspire a new global partnership with the Sierra Club, an outstanding organization, knowing that Health In Harmony’s dedicated staff team is creating many more opportunities to share and show our celebratory story. Indeed, this work is far from finished. Health In Harmony approaches its next decade with outstanding Board leaders; a well-honed staff team positioned for success; and a clear and compelling strategic plan.

The plan calls for diving further into community impact research, establishing a network of strategic partnerships in some of the world’s most resource-rich environments; collaborating with ASRI in establishing their Community Hospital and Training Center as a world class facility to train future leaders in scaling-up a model with the power to transform.

In this work, Dr. Kinari has been a visionary leader. It has been my honor, going on five years, to work side-by-side with her. I know she will continue to inspire, build momentum, and investment in global change for good.

In closing, I offer one of my favorite, most endearing poems from Adrienne Rich as an appreciation for my Health In Harmony and ASRI work-tribe, each and all of you who are in this with us:

"My heart is moved by all I cannot save: so much has been destroyed I have to cast my lot with those who age after age, perversely, with no extraordinary power, reconstitute the world."

Thank you.

Letter from the Board of Directors

Looking back, 2015 was an incredible year for Health In Harmony. Three accomplishments stand out from my perspective as Chairman:

Community Hospital and Training Center (CHTC): Under the brilliant leadership of our Executive Director, Michelle Bussard, we completed a successful capital campaign for the CHTC in Sukadana, West Kalimantan. This amazing accomplishment means that the dream shared by so many is becoming a reality. The CHTC will increase capacity to deliver affordable quality health care to >100,000 people living in the Kayong Utara Regency, where ASRI operates; equally important, it will teach and inspire others to partner the health of people with the health of their environment. For those of you who contributed, I extend a heartfelt thank you.

HIH Celebrates 10 Years: With incredible vision and the help of family and friends, Dr. Kinari Webb founded Health In Harmony (HIH) in 2005. Over the past 10 years, the organization has touched the lives of many people and saved rain forest in Gunung Palung National Park from illegal logging. Our anniversary was celebrated watching Kinari present her second TEDx talk in Seattle; if you missed it, watch it here: https://youtu.be/3JeZ_4wuYq

Strategic Plan Maps the Next 10 Years: Under the equally brilliant leadership of Maggie Gumbinner, BOD Vice President, the Board and staff team co-created the strategic plan for the next decade (2016-2026) that was approved earlier this year. Maggie followed the same process used so successfully by the ASRI team: invite people to come together, listen to diverse opinions, ask questions, listen to feedback, make some proposals, listen and modify the proposals, listen again and finalize, and then keep listening. I am so proud of this work that sets our direction for the next decade: 1) strengthen our partnership with ASRI, 2) begin replication of the HIH model, 3) tell our story at “global tables” - more often and more loudly, and 4) increase the capacity of this organization to achieve its mission.

On a personal level, I am honored to be part of Health In Harmony – an organization that saves rain forests, provides health care, educates kids and adults, and reduces poverty! I love HIH’s commitment to measure key indicators of the impact of our programs and modify them as needed. I love learning new information, working with smart people (that I like and respect), and making a difference. Looks as if I have found just the right place to spend some time.

Board of Directors, Chair
Since 2005, Health In Harmony has proven that healthy forests and healthy people go hand-in-hand. Our pilot program and partner, ASRI, has successfully implemented this innovative model, and as we continue to honor our commitment to their growth, Health In Harmony also looks ahead to future partnerships.

At Health In Harmony, we express our mission in three ways:

Investing in global partners.

Over the next decade, Health In Harmony is firmly committed to expanding our circle of global partners by engaging community-led solutions. ASRI is the “jewel in the crown” and the shining success of a model that provides health care in exchange for conservation of our planet’s vital resources. Today, Health In Harmony invests in ASRI, our program partner, by providing 66% of their $1.3 million budget in 2015. As importantly, Health In Harmony provides technical assistance, professional development, capacity building, and leadership.

HIH funded a 2nd and 3rd Indonesian doctor in specialty training in 2015.

Facilitating volunteering & professional development opportunities.

Health In Harmony’s competitive volunteer program brings highly skilled doctors, educators, conservationists, and many other esteemed professionals from all over the world to teach and train with the ASRI staff, while providing volunteers with a unique learning experience in rural Borneo. In addition, Health In Harmony also supports ongoing professional development and medical training for ASRI doctors at Yale and Stanford and invests in leadership development of the ASRI staff, building capacity within Indonesia’s workforce.

31 volunteers gave over 8,000 hours of service in 2015.

Telling the story.

At Health In Harmony, we share the stories of the lives you change through our blog, social media, e-Newsletter, and presentations. In 2015, we pumped up the volume and celebrated our 10th Anniversary with Founder, Dr. Kinari Webb’s second TEDx talk, and were honored to be featured in the Sustainia100 publication. Health In Harmony was also thrilled by coverage from Take Part, Mongabay, and New Security Beat. By telling the story of this unique model, together we are able to raise awareness, create partnerships, and reshape the conversation around global and environmental health.

73% of our website visits were from new users in 2015.

Financials

Health In Harmony’s momentum continued in 2015 with more than $1 million in revenue. This allowed us to break ground on ASRI’s Community Hospital and Training Center (CHTC) in July. Of the $1.4 million in expenses in 2015, 60% was sent to ASRI (48% for the CHTC; 12% for ASRI’s programs), and 28% on Health In Harmony’s programs unique from ASRI, including managing the volunteer program, collaborating with academic partners, and evaluating the impact of ASRI’s program through research initiatives. Individual donors continued to be significant partners in this work, providing 75% of our income. We thank all the donors and funders who continue to make this work possible.

In 2015, Health In Harmony again received GuideStar’s coveted Gold Star for Impact and Effectiveness. Health In Harmony uses Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP), which require that we recognize revenue when it is pledged, not when it is received. For 2015, this meant that more than $600,000 received in cash had already been recognized as income in 2014, when it was pledged.

Going forward, Health In Harmony is committed to financial best practices, supporting our partner in Indonesia, ASRI, and to understanding and scaling this model around the world.

We at Health In Harmony are honored by the trust built with you, our donors and funders, represented by your strategic investments in change for good. Please note that this financial report has been reviewed, but is not yet audited. Our audit will be completed in July 2016. If you’d like to see our 990 tax forms, they are available at our GuideStar page: www.guidestar.org/profile/20-3741107.

IN-KIND: In 2015, we received $31,403 in in-kind donations for our 10th Anniversary celebration and ASRI supplies.
Fundraising: This is where we leverage your dollars to find and solicit even more funding. With more money, we can save more lives and protect more rain forest.

Admin: These are the most integral expenses because they touch every part of what we do, including having an office to work out of and the technology to effectively communicate with our partners and supporters around the world.

ASRI Program Grant: This includes funding for the hospital's construction and supports costs of running the health and conservation programs from the clinic to ASRI Kids to reforestation.

Health In Harmony Programs: Health In Harmony's programs unique from ASRI are growing and now include both qualitative and quantitative research on impact and what makes this model successful. This funding also covers the volunteer program, scaling up efforts, and Health In Harmony staff contributions to ASRI programs.
